LEADERSHIP MESSAGE

For 140 years, Alexander & Baldwin, together with our employees and their families, have played an active role in shaping—and serving—our community. Much more than a collection of businesses and assets, we are defined today by more than 2,300 employees whose remarkable generosity and commitment to the well-being of their own communities is unwavering, even amidst the economic uncertainty in recent years.

We are proud to report that in 2010, the Alexander & Baldwin Foundation supported a record 550 charities with cash grants totaling $1.6 million. Our grants and matching gifts reached across diverse communities in Hawaii and on the U.S. Mainland, serving the needs of nonprofits large and small. They reflect the generosity of many, for these resources are made possible by A&B's business activities and by the employees who make them successful.

Beyond the Foundation's grants, A&B's employees gave generously of their own resources last year, making charitable donations totaling more than $250,000 and volunteering countless hours of personal time to organizations they care about. Through them, we have learned that compassion and community service cross all geographic and cultural boundaries.

In this Review of Giving, we highlight just a handful of the hundreds of worthy causes that merited support in 2010. They represent charities that not only benefited from our Foundation grants, but also benefited from the gift of time and talent of our employees and retirees.

A&B remains committed to its heritage as a responsible and generous member of the community—and we salute the generosity of so many others who give, who serve and who help shape their own communities by acting on their personal values and priorities.

Thank you for the opportunity to share their stories.

2010 RECAP $1.6 million in cash was donated to 550 charities, including matching gift recipients.

$1.3 million was distributed in Hawaii and the Pacific Islands.

$300,000 was granted on the U.S. Mainland, including about $60,000 in Illinois and Arizona.

Three multi-year commitments were fulfilled, totaling $100,000 each to The Nature Conservancy, Shriners Hospital and the Waianae Coast Comprehensive Health Center.

$300,000 in total was granted directly to United Ways in Hawaii and across the U.S. Mainland.

More than 80 of the charities supported by the Foundation also were served in leadership positions by A&B employees, directors and retirees.

Stories of Generosity

GENEROSITY ACROSS GEOGRAPHIC BOUNDARIES

American Red Cross

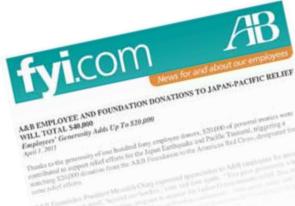

Volunteer training for disaster preparedness, Haiti and Japan Relief Stanley Kuriyama

American Red Cross

Communities across America know the Red Cross is ready to assist in the event of disasters, and they count on hundreds of residents being trained each year in first aid, CPR and other basic lifesaving skills. The A&B Foundation contributes annually to help ensure this readiness, a resilience which makes for stronger individuals, families and neighborhoods.

A&B President and CEO Stanley Kuriyama, who serves on the Hawaii Chapter's Executive Committee, is a supporter of the Chapter's collaborations with other private and tax-funded efforts to prepare, respond and recover from hurricanes, tsunamis, and floods, as well as the Red Cross' mission of helping Hawaii's residents and visitors on a Stanley Kuriyama daily basis in their times of need.

In 2010, A&B employees contributed generously to earthquake relief efforts in Haiti, and the A&B Foundation fulfilled its challenge to double their support, providing a total of $25,000 to help another island community half a world away. A&B's relief donation was made through the American Red Cross. Just recently, an additional $40,000 was donated by employees and the Foundation for Japan Earthquake and Pacific Tsunami Relief.

GENEROSITY

OF TIME AND LEADERSHIP

Left: Diane Bevilacqua Below: At a fundraising event that celebrates womanhood in many cultures, henna hand painting was an adornment option for attendees who included women helped by other women, and men.

Women Helping Women

Diane Bevilacqua

Domestic violence is finally getting the attention it deserves in order to acknowledge the problem, educate about its impacts, and prevent the cycle of violence. Women and—all too often—their children are recognizing that home should be a safe place—and when it is not, they know where to turn for shelter, advocacy and support.

On Maui, A&B Properties engineer Diane Bevilacqua's professional strengths naturally focus on the condition of the WHW shelter which is open at all hours to women and their children, through referrals from safety and social service agencies. Her focus is on maintenance and upgrades, and she sees her service on the WHW board "...as a way for my background and skills to complement that of other members, to produce well-balanced leadership. I believe in their mission and want to keep this old building safe and livable for years—until we hope it is no longer needed."

GENEROSITY OF TIME AND LEADERSHIP

MEO/Maui Native Hawaiian Chamber of Commerce BusinessFest

Chubby Vicens

Maui Economic Opportunity (MEO) works to improve the socio-economic status of residents of this Hawaiian island. One of the many projects it helps sustain is the BusinessFest, produced since 2007 by Maui's Native Hawaiian Chamber of Commerce. As its name implies, the group explores how to prepare Native Hawaiians for leadership roles in Maui's business, education, government and non-profit sectors.

Chubby Vicens

A&B Properties retiree Chubby Vicens, who also worked for Matson during his 21-year career, serves on the MNHCC board and led the group as board president in 2010. He said, "I am honored to serve this important mission; we just started the Koʻi Award, recognizing leadership, accountability and responsibility to help shape the future of the Hawaiian people."

Before the keynote speeches, workshops and breakout groups begin, the Fest starts in darkness to prepare for a sunrise arrival by canoe and congregation on shore. Respect is shared, gifts are presented and the attendees proceed with business acknowledging much in common.

GENEROSITY OF TIME AND LEADERSHIP

The Maui Farm

Mark Vaught

Children at The Maui Farm learn alongside parents and staff as they plant and tend together.

Mark Vaught

The Maui Farm began as group foster care, where youth cared for gardens and animals as a means of grounding their lives. Plowed under by changing Federal priorities. The Maui Farm's newly germinated role serves youth aging out of foster care or young stressed families in need of safety and quidance.

Mark Vaught, a manager with East Maui Irrigation Co. (EMI) and board member, knew that it felt good to give his time; he figured others would respond generously if they knew the Farm's good work. The new mission and a matching challenge grant of $5,000 helped meet their goal and more—with nearly twice that amount contributed. An encouraging start to getting this important organization off the ground!

Many Feet and Many Heartbeats

Maui employees on the Heart Walk 2010

Maui employees — many of whom work on shifts at HC&S—can be counted on to gather in force to support their favorite community causes.

Joined by friends, family and members of the support group Hui O Ka Ike at the Heart Walk 2010. their many voices, heartbeats and footsteps could be heard along the way. Walking made their hearts—and community—stronger and the team raised the most donations for this event, and won for the best t-shirt as well!

MANY YOUTH LISTENING TO EACH OTHER

Hawaii Meth Project

Not Even Once...Youth Corps members

A&B was among a core group of private donors that provided significant start-up funding to a new, effective drug use prevention program — the Hawaii Meth Project.

Now underway, this statewide effort utilizes youths speaking to other youths about the dangers of drug use—helping convince typically skeptical teens that it's not worth using this drug—not even once.

Matt Patao Torres

Koa Lagapa

Baldwin High's Matt Patao Torres rallied like-minded teens to be seen at the Maui County Fair. "We need teens to stand up...students like me must voice our concerns about meth to people who can help." HMP Kauai High Leader Koa Lagapa got involved because he believes this project "... can save lives!"

in the area of business law. A significant grant was awarded to support this area of professional training, via funding for the Michael J. Marks Distinguished Professorship in Business Law, in recognition of Marks' decades-long legal career at A&B. Other local and national law firms and charitable funds joined this endowment effort.

Inaugural Marks Professor Dr. Danielle Conway has lectured around the world on intellectual property law and licensing, globalization, and government contract law. She also is serving a commission as a Lt. Col. in the U.S. Army Reserve.

MANY GENERATIONS OF STUDENTS

Kahului Elementary School

Before the rubble was cleared from a fire that destroyed classrooms at Kahului Elementary School on Maui, the A&B Foundation responded to help teachers continue instruction until repairs were completed. A&B Properties Vice President Grant Y.M. Chun is an alumnus of the school, which has served thousands of families living in the community developed by A&B, nicknamed "Dream City."

Kahului School graduate Grant Y.M. Chun told Principal Fern Markgraf that "A&B's ties to Kahului School run deep and the Foundation wants to support education for the many families living in these neighborhoods."

GENEROSITY OF TIME AND LEADERSHIP

International Trade and Transportation Logistics Academy (ITTL)

Yolanda Gonzalez

To support possible careers at the nearby Port of Oakland, students at McClymonds High School can enroll in the International Trade and Transportation Logistics Academy (ITTL) that offers classes leading to apprenticeships, certifications or degrees in international trade, shipping and transportation. A solid foundation in science, math and technology is paired with real-life job site visits, job shadowing, mentoring and internships.

Yolanda Gonzalez

Seems like a natural fit for tapping the talents of Matson Human Resources exec Yolanda Gonzalez, who most recently helped this ITTL Academy improve its website and helped organize important job-site visits. "I was happy to help encourage students to focus on job skills needed to succeed in their careers."

ITTL Academy members paused during a site visit to Enterprise Rent-A-Car in Oakland; they also visited other businesses located near the port, including Matson.

Hawaii Foodbank

Equipment improvements—forklifts Gary North

Hawaii's food banks are challenged by smaller properties and warehouses. Their supplies must be stacked higher, thus requiring more powerful, specially designed forklifts to reach the high racks. A grant from A&B recently helped purchase two reconditioned forklifts for the Foodbank's Oahu location.

After his 27-year career at Matson, retiree Gary North serves the but not operate, the forklift which Deposits and withdrawals are made daily at the Maui Food Bank, a hub of activity with donated cash and goods coming in and food going out. But more was needed - more food, more cash, more space — and a warehouse expansion called for new racks, a fire sprinkler system and a roof-top solar system.

HC&S manager Garret Hew, co-vice-chair of the Maui Food Bank's board, is described by the nonprofit staff as "a problem solver with a wealth of experience." Colleagues know he has a passion for food—he also has a passion to serve those in need. Garret says he's really just a team player, but admitted the effort "really hits home when I know that children are not going hungry."

Food Bank board member Garret Hew happily considers the many meals to be provided thanks to an expanded Maui Food Bank.

Millions of children in the United States who receive free school lunches during the school year don't get that nutritious meal during the summer.

In Illinois, Matson employee Jeff Yasuda is among the volunteers for the Humanitarian Service Project who donate cash and food, then sort and deliver the food to families with hungry children.

A&B attorney Charlie Loomis has served in volunteer leadership for HUGS for nearly two decades, including years as a board officer and a term as president. Loomis humbly gives credit to others, saying it is "heartwarming to work with the community who's always shown HUGS great generosity."

Children find friends among many families needing hugs.

MATCHING GIFTS AND VOLUNTEER MATCHING GIFTS

Eligible donors made 245 personal gifts; A&B matched a total of $93,000.

Matching Gifts

A&B's employees, directors and retirees made many personal donations that triggered matching donations to charities of their choosing—leveraging their generosity to educational and cultural causes.

Colleges and Universities 69 gifts	$32,000
Primary and Secondary Schools	$33,000
Preschools, Museums, Libraries & Visual Arts 40 gifts	$11,000
Botanical, Environmental	$5,500
Public Radio and Television	$2,500
Musical Performing Groups and Symphonies 36 gifts	$3,000
Theatre & Dance	$6,000

Volunteer Matching Gifts

While A&B employees volunteer countless hours for their favorite causes, many who do so for charities with 501c3 status keep track that time and seek a 'match' for the hours. $250 donations are made following 25 hours of donated time, and in 2010, 21 different charities benefited from this generosity.
